

Dr Hasan Khan

MBBS, BSc, MRCGP

Professional Profile

I qualified from Kings College School of Medicine in 2011 and prior to this obtained a BSc at Kings College, University of London in Biomedical Sciences. I qualified as a GP attaining MRCGP in 2016.

My postgraduate training included paediatrics, obstetrics and gynaecology, ear nose & throat, emergency medicine, palliative care, cardiology, vascular surgery, trauma & orthopaedics and general surgery.

I am a member of the Independent Doctors Federation, fully registered with the General Medical Council, and am a member of the Royal College of General Practitioners (MRCGP). I undergo annual appraisals and 5 year revalidation.

As a General Practitioner, I am equipped with a broad range of knowledge and experience in all specialties. My postgraduate training included paediatrics, obstetrics and gynaecology, ear nose & throat medicine, emergency medicine, palliative care, cardiology, vascular surgery, trauma & orthopaedics and general surgery.

I am highly professional and committed to offering up-to-date, evidence-based, holistic care for my patients. I focus on treating my patients as individuals and offering ongoing support throughout their care which is central to my core beliefs. Working as an independent practitioner I am able to provide optimal healthcare, by having the time to focus on each patients' individual needs. I am dedicated to providing the level of care that people require and deserve, when they need it.
