

Dr Ioannis Zoukos

MD PhD

NHS Practices

Royal London and Broomfield Hospital

Professional Profile

Dr Zoukos brings 30 years of clinical neurology experience to his practice. He was appointed to King's College Hospital in 1994 and in 2002 to Broomfield Hospital & Royal London Hospitals as a consultant. He qualified from the University of Athens in 1982 and received training in adult and paediatric neurology. He moved to UK in 1986 for further training at the National Hospital for Neurology and Neurosciences. He obtained a PhD at the Institute of Neurology on neuro-immunology and published relevant papers. Dr Zoukos has a clinical interest in multiple sclerosis and peripheral neuropathies, but his interests extend to all fields of neurology including, epilepsy, migraines/headaches and Parkinson's disease.

Special Interests

Multiple sclerosis, peripheral neuropathies, autoimmune neurological conditions, headaches, epilepsy