

Dr Sandesha Kothari

Professional Profile

Dr Kothari is a Consultant in Anaesthesia and Pain Medicine at Guys and St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust and Medway NHS Foundation Trust, since her award of CCST (Certificate of Completion of Specialist Training) in Anaesthetics with special interest in Chronic Pain Medicine in the UK in 2005.

She is a member of the International Association of the Study of Pain, the British Pain Society, European Society of Regional Anaesthesia and Neuromodulation Society.

She is the Training programme director (Pain) South Thames, Deputy educational meetings coordinator for Faculty of Pain Medicine of the Royal College of Anaesthetists and co opted council member of the education committee in 2012.

Dr Kothari offers treatment for low back pain, sciatica, radiculopathy, facet joint pain, neck pain, neuropathic pain, complex regional pain syndrome, nerve pain, post surgical pain, musculoskeletal, interventional techniques including radiofrequency, ultrasound guided injections.

