

Cryotherapy

Skin lesions differ from the surrounding skin, they can also be parts of the skin that form an abnormal growth. Skin lesions can present at birth or acquired over a person's lifetime.

Cryotherapy To Remove Skin Lesions

Your consultant may recommend Cryotherapy to treat and remove your skin lesion. Cryotherapy is a method of freezing which uses a substance called liquid nitrogen. Your consultant will carefully use a controlled amount of liquid nitrogen and apply it to the affected area of skin. By applying the liquid nitrogen the targeted cells are frozen and the lesion is destroyed.
